

CRITICAL MEDICINE

TEACHING SERIES

NOV 2021 - FEB 2022

A free, fortnightly teaching series open to all UCLMS students from Years 1 to 6, jointly organised by the Decolonising the Medical Curriculum working group and the UCLMS EDI Committee. This initiative aims to equip students to think critically about different aspects of health, illness and care through a multidisciplinary lens, integrating perspectives from the fields of history, philosophy, ethics, psychology, politics, anthropology, sociology, public health, global health and more to explore the questions that matter most in medicine.

Scan the QR code below to find us at facebook.com/criticalmedicine/ or email decolonisingmed@outlook.com for more details.

Decolonising the Medical
Curriculum UCLMS